

ABSTRACT

A method of modulating the IL-10/IL-12 blood ratio in subjects suffering from an autoimmune disorder is described. The method involves administering interferon-tau in a dose sufficient to modulate the patients' IL-10/IL-12 blood ratio, to prevent on-set, to prevent progression, or to treat an autoimmune condition.